1. Screenshot of the application's home page displayed in your browser.

2. Explanation of additional features.

Additional features include dynamic button prompts for whether a trade is yours, not yours, available or not available, or if it is currently in a trade. Only users who own the trade item and only if the trade item is not in a pending trade can edit or delete trade items. Any item that is unavailable cannot be edited, deleted, or offered a trade until the pending transaction is completed or rejected and the item becomes available again. A dynamic "take back trade" button is available when a trade offer is made that allows the operation to be undone by the initiating user only. The watchlist can accept any trade item and will display them on your profile for you to view at any time.

3. Explanation of status, and stopping point if incomplete.

The current status is complete. All project requirements have been satisfied and thorough testing has been completed by myself and any errors or bugs discovered have been solved and fixed.
